The Cambridge Encyclopedia of Language. Cambridge University Press estimates that the world wide population the number of speakers of a Celtic language totals approximately 1.4 million (2010 data). That is roughly the number of people who live in Hawaii

The 1.4 million figure includes Celtic speaking populations in Patagonia, Argentina, Cape Breton, NS, Canada, and the USA who do not use the language on a daily basis.

Approximately 21 million people live in one of the Seven Celtic Nations identified by the Celtic League.
